

TO IGNORE CORONER IN MURDER INQUIRY

NASSAU COUNTY GRAND JURY WILL INVESTIGATE KILLING OF MRS. LOUISE BAILEY.

LOOK FOR MURDERESS

District Attorney Insists Slaying Was Accomplished by a Woman—Mrs. Carman Insists She Is Innocent.

Freeport, N. Y., July 7.—The abrupt end of the coroner's inquest into the slaying of Mrs. Louise Bailey, on June 30, to the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, and the announcement that the Nassau county grand jury would begin an investigation of the case on Thursday next, lead to the report today that the testimony of the most important witness was being withheld. Disagreement between Coroner Norton and Sheriff Stephen T. Pettit was also hinted at, and it was said that the sheriff and district attorney had determined to present their case to the grand jury, thereby ignoring the coroner's inquiry.

District Attorney Smith made no effort to conceal his theory of the case. He insisted that the murder was accomplished by a woman. Another clue being followed today has to do with a threat alleged to have been made by a woman who said that "I'll murder that man if it takes me all my life." The woman, according to the informant, pointed to Dr. Carman as the object of her anger.

Insists on Innocence.

Despite the finding of bullets in the Carman house exactly like the one that killed Mrs. Louise Bailey in Dr. Carman's office last week, and in spite of the suspicions which were aroused when it was learned that Mrs. Carman had installed a dicto-

"BLUE SKY" LAW IS PRACTICAL FAILURE IS KUOLT'S CHARGE

Wisconsin Banking Commissioner Addressing Bank Supervisors at Atlantic City Points to Defects.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—Defects in its framing have made the Wisconsin "blue sky" law a practical failure, according to Commissioner A. E. Kuolt, of that state. In an address here last night before the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, the purpose of the law, which is in effect in Kansas, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin, is to stop the sale of stock in "fly by night" concerns, visionary oil wells, distant gold fields, and other fraudulent exploitations. Mr. Kuolt said that although the efforts of these states are commendable, insurmountable obstacles prevent their practical enforcement.

Inspection Necessary.

"At the outset," said Commissioner Kuolt, "we are confronted with the task of making a satisfactory examination of the standing of the individuals and associations which desire to prosecute their business. A personal examination must be made of the amount of correspondence is a sufficient basis for judging the safety and responsibility of the individuals or associations who are to put these securities on the market. Such an examination would necessitate the employment of from two to three hundred persons to do this work efficiently.

"Unless a most thorough examination is made, there can be but one result—a poor examination, being worse than no examination. Licenses are invariably granted to individuals and associations of doubtful standing, who will exploit the prestige thus acquired by the state's stamp of approval, and the unwary investor, who has implicit faith in the fact that the seller has a state license, will be duped."

AX MURDER BAFFLES POLICE OF CHICAGO

Apparent Absence of Motive for Killing of Four Persons Proves Mystery to Authorities.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, July 7.—Hampered by an apparent total absence of motive, the police today continued the search for the murderer who, with an ax, killed Jacob Mislith, his wife and daughter, Mrs. Martha Mansfield, and her seven months old infant, Sunday night.

The police were loath to believe that the slaying was done by the notorious ax-murderer credited with the death of twenty-five persons killed by blows from an ax, in the past three years in the middle west.

The principal object of their search was the half-witted man, formerly a boarder of the Mislith family, Mr. Wm. Mansfield, son-in-law of Mislith, who has not been seen by the family for a year, also was sought.

WILL PUBLISH MANY CELEBRATION VIEWS

Additional Pictures of Fourth of July Parade to Appear in Saturday's Gazette.

Owing to the lack of time in securing photographs of the Fourth of July celebration in time for publication in Monday's issue of the Gazette, it is planned to print a series of the famous parade of Col. Nonesuch and his wonderful assembly on Saturday next.

The parade was an exceptional one and the many and varied features were most unique. Those who have seen all the exhibits of this famous mythical personage, Col. Nonesuch, insist that the show on Saturday was the best ever attempted. The men who engineered the affair and the actors participating certainly deserve great credit. It would be hard to pick the feature acts that stand out by themselves. The parade, as the Whirling Dervish certainly kept up to his former records if he did not surpass them. The chariot driven by Miss Marie Nelson was one of the unique features and but few, except her most intimate friends, recognized the driver of the fiery steeds. The peace mediation party, with William Jennings Bryan (Katie) directing the Janesville band, drew a large crowd of applause. The cowboy, cowgirl, Indian and Mexican contingent were genuine enough to have stepped from some wild west show and the Indians with painted faces and bare breasts even frightened some of the smaller spectators. Reverend William, as the animated fire cracker, Harry Jones and his wonderful elephant, Ray Mason's chicken, Dr. Heston's Uncle Sam, all deserve credit for their efforts as do hundreds of others. While not all the pictures of the parade will appear Saturday, there will be many more than printed Monday evening. Added to this will be the pictures of the winners of the evening's auto parade. One of the handiwork of the decorated cars that did not receive a prize was that of J. M. Postwick & Sons, which was most striking in its decorations, showing in preparation. Unfortunately, the real beauty of this parade could not be appreciated owing to the fact the cars went by so quickly and the decorations did not show to their best advantage in the semi-darkness. The prize winning car was owned by Herman Bures, not Robert Bures, as given in Monday's Gazette, owing to a typographical error.

LONG HANDLED LAWN MOWER

Designed to Facilitate Grass Cutting on a Slope or Terrace.

The gardener who is compelled to cut the grass on a terrace finds this work very tedious and usually tiring, and many of them have resorted to improvised means and apparatus to simplify and lighten this task. The men employed on a well-known railroad, where there is a large amount of this class of work to look after have found it advisable to work in pairs at this labor, one man walking along at the top of the terrace,

LONG-HANDLED MOWER AT WORK ON TERRACE

holding the lawn mower by a rope secured to a flag at the side, while another guides and pushes the machine. There has been recently invented an auxiliary handle for the lawn mower, by which this labor may be performed by a single man. Moving along at the top of the terrace, he draws the cutting machine up and down, progressing in short distances. Each trip of the mower, so that the machine enters the long grass each time.

Voices in the Air.

Passengers on a steamer to Portland were surprised when about fifteen miles from the Maine port to hear voices and music coming apparently from the air. When they got into the harbor they found that on a boat tied up at the wharf there was a wireless apparatus, to which was attached a wireless telephone attachment on which the operator had been experimenting.

What Children Should Eat

what children should eat.

The best meats for children of all ages are crisp bacon, broiled and roasted beef, lamb, mutton, chicken, and white fish. If meat broths are used, it should be remembered that they are valuable chiefly as stimulants and contain very little food substance.

Between the fifth and tenth years the diet should still include a large amount of milk. New foods are gradually added until the child is eating practically the same food as the adults of the family. A well mixed diet, including a reasonable amount of vegetables and well ripened fruits, is always desirable. Individual preferences cannot always be overcome, but careful training will do much toward cultivating a taste for all kinds of food.

In the adolescent period the large amount of food needed makes it important that it be of an easily digested kind, simple and rich in protein and mineral salts. The average active boy of 14 will need quite as much food during the day as a grown man of sedentary habits.

NATIONAL INTEREST IN LONDON BATTLE

English Backing Freddie Welsh to Beat Willie Ritchie in Bout in London Tonight.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 7.—Unless Willie Ritchie awoke today with a pain in his toe or something else as terrible as the matter with him, there'll be a fight at the National Sporting Club between the American lightweight champion and Freddie Welsh, light-weight title-holder of Great Britain.

One of the biggest crowds which has ever seen a boxing match in London was expected to see the international clash this evening. Because of England's comeback in polo, not to mention the Oxford university track team's victory in America, English sportsmen today evinced great interest in the Ritchie-Welsh bout. Both boys issued the usual prophecy of victory. Both claimed to be in the best possible shape. Betting was about even, although Englishmen in the majority got slight odds on the argument that Ritchie should be the favorite on form.

Eugene Corrie Ritchie's choice, will referee the fight which is scheduled to go twenty rounds. Under the agreement, Ritchie is guaranteed $15,000 with a privilege of 15 per cent of the gross receipts. In addition, the American champion gets moving picture privileges which it is estimated will be worth $11,000, and advertising privileges worth $10,000 more. Altogether, win or lose, Ritchie will go back to America some $35,000 or $40,000 better off than when he left his home shores. The winner is to assume the title of light-weight champion of the world.

As was natural, there was a world of speculation on the outcome of the fight. Welsh is admittedly a first class lightweight. Even wildly enthusiastic Americans in London, who are betting rather recklessly on the outcome, admit this, by virtue of Welsh's performances during the recent tour of the states. Ritchie, Englishmen admit, is far better than the average in cleverness. They argue, however, that the American won from the latter far from being as good as he had been up to six or eight months previous to the day he lost his crown to Ritchie. They believe Ritchie will not be able to take the punishment which they believe Welsh will give him despite Ritchie's science and defense. Welsh, they say, has the punch and the stamina, and while not nearly so clever as Ritchie can stand more of a beating than the American can stand out.

Welsh Favorite.
London, July 7.—Fred Welsh, light-weight champion of England and Willie Ritchie, light-weight champion of the world, arrived in London this morning from Porthcawl, Wales, and Brighton, respectively, for their fight tonight in the great arena of the Olympic in the west end of London. Both boxers declare themselves confident of winning the championship and both said they felt in the pink of condition. Their looks bore out their statement.

Welsh was favored in the betting by a slight margin, probably due to the support which his compatriots have been giving him at Porthcawl, where most of the betting so far has been five to four in his favor.

Sport Snap Shots

The Giants' ability to come across with a wallop in a pinch and seriously set back their nearest rivals seems to be their biggest card. It is this quality that has won so many pennants for them and they are showing it in good shape this season. Through the early part of the season the Pirates were doing a very good job. It was thought that the Pirates with a nice early season start wouldn't be stopped. The Giants at this time had been coming along as they were in a four-game series with the Pirates when it was thought that the Pirates would take at least three out of the four. The Giants showed a sudden vigor and took three of the four. From that point on they kept an edge on the Pirates. Much the same sort of thing took place when the Reds threatened to step ahead. It was thought that they would take at least three of the four games and get a hold on first place, but again the Giants surprised one and all by grabbing three. It has always been the way in Giant baseball. It is their own little method of reserving first place for themselves and resting there when the season comes to a close.

Connie Mack and Clark Griffith have had a little controversy. Connie it seems has declared that Griffith should be chased from the national pastime and Griffith has come back by saying that Connie is a cheap skater. All of which is deplorable of course, and yet somewhat refreshing, too, in these days of court disputes and law suits. It would be nice if some of the other moguls would engage in heated quarrels. It's diverting at least.

The Feds have said that if the pennant winners of organized baseball refuse to play them for the world's championship next fall they will claim the honor by default. And it has been suggested that that is a very prudent way in which to meet the Athletics.

It used to be Cobb and Crawford with the Tigers, but now it seems to be Veach and Crawford. Veach is hitting right up at the top lately and as a pinch hitter is especially effective. Batting after Wahoo Sam he can generally be relied upon to bring him in.

A moving picture man was taking films of the White Sox at Chicago several days ago. The operator asked Ed Walsh if he wouldn't knock up a few fungoes and delight the movie fans. Ed was more than willing and in fact complied so eagerly that as it sailed very close to his bean.

Johnny Coulton retires also. He has announced emphatically that he is through with the game forever and aye. Which is good judgment, say many. But it might be added that Johnny has about $75,000 saved away to keep him when his few stray hairs are gray.

THE APOLLO.
In reviewing "The Drug Terror," which will be shown for one day only at the Apollo on Wednesday, Victor Watson, of the New York American, says:

"The Drug Terror" is made from the report of the investigation that made in such drugs as cocaine and heroin and the like that are mowing down the lives of countless thousands throughout the country.

FATE DEALS CRUEL BLOW TO MORDECAI

Mordecai Brown.

Tragedy and pathos mark the efforts of Mordecai Brown, hero of four world's series and one of the best and gamest pitchers that ever lived, to hold his position as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and keep the team from disappearing in the last-place mire. It is one of the saddest incidents of a baseball season which will go down as the most disappointing in the history of the game.

Automobile Demonstrates Itself

A. A. Russell & Co., the local agents of Premier, tell an interesting story in connection with the illustration shown above, which illustrates in a way the wonderful efficiency attained by the modern six-cylinder automobile. Today the high powered car is in such perfect mechanical control that comparisons with the action of cars of only five years back seem almost unbelievable.

A prospective automobile owner desired a car that could literally be slowed down "to a walk" on high gear, and the dealer in question immediately cut down the motor to the required speed, and to the amazement of the prospect and spectators, jumped out of the car and walked alongside, as the illustration shows. The demonstration was so graphic and convincing that the desired result was attained without further effort.

CALLS IT PIFFLE.
Winfield Jones, who has written many articles for the Gazette and other newspapers throughout the country on the mistakes of the present democratic administration, calls the statement of President Wilson that the widespread business depression of the country is merely "psychological," as simply piffle. Mr. Jones is perhaps a trifle hard on the democratic president, who is running the nation by the same rigid lines he conducted Princeton university, but he follows up his statement by quoting some of the "psychological" results that have happened.

A falling off in bank clearings in all leading financial centers.
Cessation of orders for steel amounting to nearly fifty per cent.
Four times the number of idle railroad cars as compared with May, 1913.

Tons of Lake Superior ore carried in May, 1914, 3,852,963, as against 7,261,212 tons carried in May, 1913.
Gross earnings of railroads, 11.42 per cent less than for May, 1913.

Building permits in 77 cities show a falling off of $22,271,249 in five months.
Commercial failures in May the largest for that month in fourteen years.

Shipment abroad of more than $50,000,000 in gold during the first half of June.

The tariff has more than "psychology" to do with the business unrest.

Two of the biggest clothing manufacturers in the United States made their usual trip abroad recently and surprised their friends by staying much longer than usual. Their explanation was, "We need more time because we are going to buy so much more cloth in England than we have ever bought before. With the tariff changed, we shall buy in England a great deal that we have been buying from American manufacturers hitherto."

These manufacturers have not reduced the price of clothes. The consumer has not benefited.
Whereas formerly one American workman in a cloth mill was making the material which another American workman later on purchased in his suit, now a workman in England is making the cloth that the American workman buys in the suits.

The money that one American worker earns and that used to formerly go to another American worker now goes to a worker in England.

We don't need "psychology," merely common sense to know that kind of thing means trouble for the American worker.

The people have a right to know these facts. Knowing the facts and conditions, the people will be prepared to pass judgment at the polls upon the politicians who are guilty of the serious crime of undermining American prosperity.

Since Wilson became president every industry in the country has been injured, particularly the following:

The sugar industry, both agricultural as to cane and beets, and the production of sugar from beets. Iron and steel, lumber, wool growing, woolen manufactures, cotton manufactures, building, railroading, printing, leather, cars, carriages and wagons,
furniture.

Every industry but one has been hurt. It is said that pawnbrokers were never so flourishing, though the vast savings accumulated under five-teen years of protection have not yet been so depleted as to drive all to the pawnshops.

When it is remembered that the present tariff is only the "first step" of the free-traders, we can well contemplate with anxiety what a second and third step would bring.

There are 3,000,000 wage earners working short hours or wholly unemployed in the country today.

The first step toward remedying
this fearful condition will be a protest by all protectionists at the polls next fall. The second step will be the election of a protectionist president and congress in 1916. It is the only way to check further injury to every citizen of this country.

EXPENSIVE IDEA.
That the Wisconsin idea is an expensive experiment is not confined to the press comments of the Wisconsin papers that have opposed the plan for many years. Eastern newspapers of note have taken it up and the following editorial is quoted from the Philadelphia Enquirer:

"For years we have been told that the Wisconsin idea of politics as demonstrated by Senator La Follette was the only simple pure reform in the world and a sure cure for for all ills of the body politic. We even sent out a committee of prominent men from this city to sit at the feet of the Wisconsin Gamelle and learn wisdom. The principal part of the idea was to have everything done by commission, and most of the commissions were headed by members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, where multiple salaries are common.

"No state can show such a fine array of academic commissions as well as some of our administrative ones. It is Wisconsin, and if Mr. La Follette missed any opportunity to erect more it was because he did not see it. Now the state is in the midst of a bitter campaign and La Follette's policies are under fire.

"It appears that before La Follette
'redeemed' the state the expenses amounted to $2 per capita, and no one can deny that Wisconsin always has been a prosperous commonwealth.
Now the expense is $5 per capita and the increase is almost entirely due to the many commissions which control nearly everything. The people do not seem to be proportionately grateful and there is going to be the hottest sort of a time this fall when a full set of state officials and a United States senator are to be elected."

A FAR CRY.
It is a far cry from Trafalgar Square, London, to Janesville, seeking contributions to aid in arming the Irish Nationalists with rifles and ammunition to fight their Irish brothers in the north, whom they term as Tory fanatics, armed and ready to swoop down on the unarmed south of Ireland, patriots who want home rule,
and murder men, women and children.
However the impossible has been accomplished and a young woman who signs herself "Lillian Scott, Troy," makes the appeal for money to start a civil war in Ireland and wants Janesville patriots to aid. The letter received here goes into detail as to what might be accomplished if money was furnished to buy munitions of war, but it will doubtless fall on deaf ears for this is a peaceful community and the Irish question is a pure and simple Irish-English problem to be decided by the British parliament—not by force of arms.

A Chicago paper wants to know what has become of the old-fashioned Fourth of July orator? If the writer had been in Janesville last Saturday and heard the stirring patriotic address of Hon. H. A. Cooper it would have warmed the cockles of his heart and given him a new idea on what the United States constitution means to Americans.

Huerta was re-elected president and immediately we learn that he has again decided to flee Mexico and take refuge in some foreign country with his family and associates. This fleeing business is getting about as tiresome as the peace reports from Niagara Falls or the results of conferences between Villa and Carranza.

July is now ready to do a bit of stocking all on its own account. We may expect anything from July except nice cool days and nights. Corn must grow and crops harvested if this country is to be fed during the next twelve months.

On The Spur of The Moment

Old Ben Zoate of Soda.
About Ben Zoate (may his tribe increase)
Awoke one night amid the grime and grease
And saw within the cannery's deep gloom
A demon writing in the book of doom
Exceeding nerve Ben Zoate now possessed,
And thus the sooty visitor addressed:
"What writest thou?" The demon raised his head, Saying with shrewd look from his
thievish eyes,
"The names of those who love the Prince of Lies."
"And is mine there?" youth Abou.
"Nay," he said—
"But I shall write what'er thou wilt instead."
And Abou sweetly said, "I am content."
Write me, I pray, 'One-tenth of one per cent.'"
The demon wrote and went, but the next night
He came again and by a flickering light
He showed the names that met the devil's test,
And, lo, Ben Zoate's name led all the rest.

Contentment.
When I'm jogging along with my old horse and he whisks up his ears, wags his head and gives me the feller who most dishes one of my wheels as he goes whizzing by in his automobile, thinks I am envious he'll soon learn that I don't give a tinker's dam. He may go like the wind, till he splits a cog. I'll just keep on at the same old jog. I'm mighty sartin' my tire won't skid, nor my clutch refuse to do as it's bid. Nor I won't lose control and go over the park, nor the benzine won't run out of my tank. No, I wouldn't give a single rap for no contraption such as that. Why, I wouldn't be president! For me that job ain't worth a cent. I wouldn't dast go on the street for fear some crazy crank I'd meet would blow me up with dynamite and send me soaring higher'n a kite, to come down again a different man, to be picked up on the installment plan. The papers they'd all ring my praises, and there I'd be all blowed to blazes. And praises sung or writ or read ain't worth a whop when once yer dead.
No, Sir, I'll just stay where I be.
This life is good enough fer me.
I've got a farm, up in the hills, and we're jest plain folks; no tucks and some ducks and turkeys at we have good luck, and let our kids all romp and tear and get good bracing country air. And we work and play and eat and sleep, and enjoy good health
—and that's a heap.

Farewell, but Not Good-Bye.
They tell us Bernhard's going to make another farewell tour.
And that we really ought to go and see this time, sure.
She's made a lot of farewell tours of this realm in the past,
But this one, positively, so they say,
will be the last.
However, if you miss her, do not let
it cause you pain.
For it's a moral cinch that she will be around again.

Evansville News
Evansville, July 7.—Mrs. Albert Francisco was born August 2, 1843, in Utica, New York, and died Sunday

she went to Janesville, where she resided until her marriage to Albert Francisco of Evansville, March 30, 1874. No children were born to this union.

Evansville has always been her home since marriage, although she has moved to Beloit and other places for short periods.

Deceased was a former member of W. R. C. Poor health prevented her from being closely affiliated with this order in later years. She was also a member of the Baptist church, having joined the church in Janesville over fifty years ago.

Beside her husband she leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. R.

however.

Mrs. Weaver has been a resident of Evansville for the past twenty years and before making home in the town, resided on a farm west of this place. She was an earnest member

Reparation.

people next door to take dinner with us tonight." "What for?" "Well, the butcher, by mistake, left their meat order here, and it seems only fair."

The contract for the construction of the Bass Creek drainage ditch, by which more than 3,300 acres of land in what is known as the Hanover marsh, in the western part of Rock county, will be reclaimed for cultivation, was awarded on Monday to the Warner Dredge Company of Valley Junction, Wisconsin, by the commissioners of the district. The contract price is $14,193.30, and work will be started by Aug. 1st, or Aug. 17th at the latest.

There were twelve concerns that submitted bids, which were opened at the office of Whitehead & Matheson, attorneys for the commissioners. Among the firms whose bids were considered were: Joseph A. Maxwell, Chicago; Essex Construction Company, of Buffalo, New York; Northern Construction Company of Chicago, Indiana; Moffat Construction Company of Des Moines, Iowa; Campbell, Spratt & Co. of Oakton, Illinois; Theodore C. Froemming, Milwaukee; American Dredging Company of Chicago; G. A. McWilliams, Chicago; E. M. Johnson, Chicago; Henry P. Blech, South Milwaukee; and Henry P. Johnson, Sterling, Illinois.

The two main ditches, maps and blue-prints for which have been prepared by H. H. Tubbs of Elkhorn, engineer of the district, will suffice to drain the entire region. One ditch will extend from a point near Orfordville eastward to Hanover, and the other from a point near Footville southward, joining with the other at Bass Creek. Each ditch is between eight and nine miles in length. There will be four side ditches for the Orfordville branch, and the main ditches are sufficient to take care of the drainage.

The contract provides for 164,700 cubic yards of excavation, clearing of 644 acres of land, supplying of fifty-four cubic yards of concrete for the foundation of one bridge, removing of iron bridge and replacing it upon new foundations, 200 yards of earth filling for site of bridge to be removed, and 33 yards of rip-rap for foundation protection.

The contract was entered into by the construction company with the commissioners for the district: O. P. Gaarder of Orfordville, S. J. Strang and Michael Mulcahey of Footville, who were appointed by Judge Grinn of the circuit court on the recommendation of the property owners of the Bass Creek district. The construction company will furnish a bond of $6,000.

The commissioners have settled the assessment of benefits and damages against the various pieces of property in the district and have come to terms with all the parties interested with the exception of the C. M. & S. P. and the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad companies. The track of the former company extends nearly parallel with the Orfordville branch, while the Northwestern tracks lie near the Footville branch. The companies contend that the assessment against their property is too large, and the settlement of their cases is now pending in the circuit court.

A settlement was reached yesterday between the drainage district commissioners and the town of Plymouth, and the case involving these parties, which was to have been tried before a jury in circuit court on Monday next, has been dismissed. According to the terms of the settlement the township will build two bridges which will be required under the specifications.

Much of the land which will now be brought under cultivation has been of little value except as pasture or for raising marsh or wild hay. It will now be subdivided and broken up for the usual crops of this climate while its value will be enhanced so that it will be equal to that of the higher land of the section.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL JUNIOR CAMP WILL BE GRAND OUTING

Janesville Y. M. C. A. Junior Boys to Go to Lake Delavan from July 28th Until August 6th.

With expectations of surpassing the fifteen previous junior boys' camps, given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of this city, Secretary J. C. Kline anticipates the biggest, best and most exciting time, from July 28th until August 6th, at which time the 16th annual outing will be enjoyed at Lake Delavan.

In former years no less than forty boys have been numbered in the tents and cottages prepared for the youngsters, and it is the desire this year to make the list run up to a hundred, if such a thing is possible. Only the members of the association that are pledged juniors, are allowed to register their names on the outing.

A camp for the intermediates and seniors may be given at a later time if enough boys can be gathered together to warrant the meeting of all expenses.

A small hand card, entitled Camp Progress, has been printed and is being circulated among the parents of the junior boys. The card contains all necessary reading matter regarding the running of the camp, with an application blank space to fill in.

The three objects of the junior camp are, first, to give the boys a fine outing for a small amount; second, to develop qualities of leadership, and third, to fill the vacation time with superior privileges among good associations. Rules for safety are enforced. The past record in the camp has been without an accident. The camp will be in charge of J. C. Kline, general secretary, and F. S. Cuckoo, of Beloit College, as a helper. Also three or four representatives from the other Y. M. C. A.'s will be in charge of the youths.

The features of the camp include swimming, boating, fishing, photography and other sports, including a hike to the top of Mt. Keweenaw in Geneva. These activities form only a small part of what really goes on. In fact, the outings given in past years by the local association have rivaled the state camps held at Lake Delavan.

Lake Delavan is an exceptional spot for enjoying an outing. Parents should not hesitate allowing their boys to join in the ten days' vacation, as the boys are assured by the men in charge during the entire trip and stay at the resort.

TWO VAGRANTS ARE GIVEN NINETY DAYS

Four Men Drew Various Terms in Municipal Court This Morning.—Adjourn Edgerton Trial.

Vagrants should steer clear of Janesville if they wish to enjoy liberty, the court clerk, John M. Vagstad, said this morning. The number of vagrants in the city has increased since the new municipal court was demonstrated by the sentences handed to two offenders by Judge L. M. Maxfield.

One of the offenders was a man named Griften and Thomas O'Brien, a stranger, received ninety day sentences on their plea of guilty to the charge named in the municipal court this morning.

Another man named O'Brien pleaded guilty to being drunk and was given twenty days in default of a fine of fifteen dollars and costs. Mike Dwyer, a native of the county, was given twenty days or twenty-five dollars and costs for being drunk. Dwyer had celebrated the Fourth and was returning to his home on his shoulder for trouble. Meeting another employee trouble started brewing and Mike gave his opponent a trouncing. The history of the case was taken by the county jail, where he was returned this morning to serve forty days.

The trial of the state vs. Albert Barz of Edgerton on the charge of vagrancy was adjourned for one week. The trial of Clyde Smith, charged with speeding, was adjourned two weeks on the consent of the attorneys, S. G. Dunwiddie and Louis Avery.

Robert Schumaker, aged eighteen years, is recovering from a serious cut received in an accident before the speed races at the driving park grounds Sunday.

Robert was riding on his motorcycle and was thrown off the machine when his wheel skidded into another cycle. His right leg was painfully cut and slight lacerations were taken by the machine when he was called after the youth had been taken to his home on Riverside street in one of the racing cars. He is reported much improved today.

Schmidt of Minneapolis, formerly of this city, to Miss Florence Louise Pomerleau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pomerleau of the northern city. After a honeymoon the couple will make their home at 3344 Blaisdell avenue, Minneapolis.

Changes Justified: "Isn't it a shame the prices of these New York restaurants change?" "But isn't it worth something to entertain the class of people they have to?"—Smart Set.

MANY OUT OF TOWN PEOPLE ATTEND CELEBRATION HERE

Ticket receipts at the local stations show that a great many more people were here from outside the city for the celebration than at the celebration here three years ago.

At the St. Paul station during the early evening the services of a policeman were required to control the large crowd, which left at that time, and it was necessary to form a line about the ticket window. Ticket Agent F. L. Davis reports that he was kept busy all morning in answering questions as to where the "Nonesuch" circus was going to show.

CHOIR BOYS LEAVE FOR ANNUAL CAMP

Members of Trinity Church Choir Depart for Two Weeks' Camping at Mirror Lake This Morning.

The Trinity choir boys left this morning for their annual camping trip. About twenty-five made the trip to Delton, Wis., from whence they will go to Mirror lake where they will camp for two weeks. This camping trip is an annual affair and has become an event to which the boys look forward with the keenest anticipation. The camp this year is situated only a short distance from the beautiful Delta of the Wisconsin river and this fact alone should assure a delightful time to the boys.

Those who made the trip by train this morning were: Robert Mills, Luther Mills, Walter Buehl, Roy Buehl, Laurence Nichols, Fred Schumaker, Merrill Nowlan, Delton, Minn., Arthur Amerpohl, Dean Kimball, Lyman Kimball, James G. Gregory, William W. Gregory, John Ford, Reginald Ridley, Harry Schultz, George Schultz, George Kavelange.

The following left this morning to make the trip in autos: Harry E. Ranous, Ranous Schaller, Harold Amerpohl, Hallet Day, William and Richard Farnsworth.

Ample preparations have been made to provide plenty of provisions for the boys. Mrs. Anna Mosher and Miss Pearl Mills will preside over the culinary department.

Father Willmann will have charge of the camp and will be assisted by Harry E. Ranous.

PLAYGROUNDS ARE VERY SUCCESSFUL

Attendance Has Been Unusually Large During Past Week.—Adams Grounds Will Open on Monday.

If the present plans of Walter Cox, director of the playground system of this city, are carried out, the Adams school plot will be opened for the children on next Monday. The opening, which was originally planned for last week, was postponed because of the grading which was not completed in the expected time. The work has been going on steadily so that the apparatus will be ready for the opening.

Monday morning the lessons in swimming will be started at Goose Island, where an area of water will be roped off for the children. A school of classes is being arranged by Mr. Cox which will be announced later. The hours of swimming will be from nine-thirty until eleven-thirty in the morning.

At a meeting of the four directors of the grounds with Walter Cox last evening the work so far was talked over and the plans were made for the coming week. The attendance lists handed in showed that the number at each of the three playgrounds has averaged near one hundred children a day. This number was very satisfactory for the first week's work. Many new games were given to the children, and the directors of the grounds for the meeting it was decided to keep the plots open in the evening for the older people. The hours will be from six o'clock until eight o'clock and it is hoped that a large number of people will take advantage of this change.

A tennis court will be placed at the Webster school grounds this week. They will make the second plot which is equipped with the paraphernalia for this form of pleasure. The court at the Washington school has met with great success and it is expected that when this one is added it will also be enjoyed by the people of the ward.

Something Worth Trying.

Anybody who has ever tried, for five minutes, a big motive, ever tried working a little happiness for other people into what he is doing for himself, for instance, if he stopped to think about it and how it worked and how happy it made him himself, would never do anything in any other way all his life. It is the big motives that are efficient.—Crowds.

NO DEPRESSION IN BUSINESS AS YET?

Executive Claims, However, That There Is No Reason for Hard Times.

(By Winfield Jones.)

Washington, D. C., July 7.—In a recent formal statement to business men President Wilson acknowledged that there is business depression, but insists that there is "abundant evidence that there is no material condition or substantial reason why the business of the country should not be in the most prosperous and expanding condition."

Here's richness! Apparently business is not good because people do not want it to be good. We have heard of great "interests" working for a pause or business decline, but we have never seen the slightest evidence of it for the reason that "the interests" and all interests and all people everywhere are at all times interested in being as prosperous as possible, and no psychological conditions are permitted to interfere.

President Wilson has brought with him from Princeton the term "psychological," which has been overworked in recent times to explain anything and everything which doesn't always fill the bill.

Is it psychological conditions which prevent the railroads from doing enough business to pay interest and dividends? The answer is that they are trying their best to get more revenue. Is it a psychological condition on the part of a manufacturer that leads him to work with only 6,000 men, while 12,000 would be employed a year ago when the streets were full of people making only the goods he can sell and refuse to fill his shelves with commodities which he cannot dispose of? Is it psychology which leads the merchant to buy carefully and purchase no goods which he knows he cannot sell? And is it psychology which prevents men or women from buying things which they know they cannot pay for?

It isn't psychology. It is Democratic legislation and policy. It is Democratic assault on every sort of legitimate business enterprise which has reduced the earning and consuming power of the country.

Wools and woolsens are coming into the country at about three times the ordinary rate. In January our imports of this head were valued at well over $4,500,000 compared with less than one-third that amount for January, 1913. Doubtless there is joy in administration circles over this result, but it is not reflected in reports from manufacturers in this country nor the wool growers of the west.

And where does the consumer come in? At the little end of the horn, as usual. In spite of the fact that the rates for Schedule K have been greatly reduced, the consumer gets no benefit. Clothing for men and women costs no less than it did a year ago. Nothing costs less.

Here is the situation. Our imports of manufactured goods are increasing monthly, but as the duties are now low and raw wool is free—the government is getting less revenue while many of our laborers are out of work. There is no satisfaction to any man in this situation. The administration is trying its best to prove that black is white, but with indifferent success. Secretary Redfield's western speeches have not had the effect expected. Western manufacturers are demanding to know what has become of the campaign promises.

Position During Sleep.

People who believe it advisable to sleep with the head to the north hold that the magnetic current flowing from north to south induces healthful rest as it passes through the body. This opinion is by no means generally accepted.

Outward Bound.

"Have you an opening here for me?" asked the assertive young man. "Yes," answered the capitalist. "It's right behind you."

CLINTON

Clinton, July 7.—Clinton experienced one of the most sane and quiet fourths of July in its history, not a single accident being reported. A large number of our people celebrated in Janesville and Sharon. At the latter place the ball game in the morning proved exceedingly interesting to all, especially to the Clinton people inasmuch as the local team of invincibles defeated the Sharon team by a score of 1 to 0. The pitching of Guy Mauley for Clinton, was exceptionally fine, and won loud praise on all sides.

The annual school meeting was held last evening at the school building. Sixty-eight were present, sixteen of whom were ladies. The usual reports of school clerk and treasurer were read and approved. The matter of inviting the nearby country districts to consolidate with Clinton and make this a central school, was freely discussed and a motion adopted to that effect. A. V. Peters declined to serve another term as clerk, after nine years of faithful and hard work. H. J. Napper was elected in his place. A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Peters for his faithful work for so many years.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chamberlain last Wednesday night, twin boys.

Miss Louisa Gilbertson has sold her Maxwell auto to Ernie Zick and has purchased a Case Car of Terwilliger and son.

Rev. Robert Finster of Hurley, Wis., spent last week here with his parents and children.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. E. L. Hatch entertained a number of ladies at a bridge party in honor of her sister, Mrs. C. C. Wakefield of St. Paul. The affair proved one of the most charming events of the season, well preserved and delicious refreshments being served at 5:30. Mr. A. Woodard, Jr., of Allen Grove, won the honors.

SCIENCE NOTES

During the past winter wireless installations have been placed on a great number of the vessels of the Great Lakes, largely as a result of the bad experiences of vessels which were not equipped in a storm which raged just before the closing of the navigation for the season.

All the vessels which were fitted with the wireless system were warned in time for them to seek shelter, with the result that none of these was lost or even suffered the least damage, while 19 American vessels which were without this means of keeping in touch with the shore, were lost.

The largest hoisting machines in the world are installed in the mines of South Africa, but outside of these, a notable installation of this character is to be found in the Granite Mountain shaft of the North Butte Mining Company. This shaft is about being completed and will ultimately have a lift of 4,000 feet. The capacity from this point will be 200 tons per hour, which, from the 2,000-foot level, it will be 300 tons per hour. The hoisting drum is 12 feet in diameter and will be driven by a direct connected electric motor supplied with power from a generator set provided with a 50-ton flywheel. The hoisting motor has a maximum intermittent rating of 4,500 horsepower.

The Norwegian government has acquired ownership of many of the larger water powers in the country and is still engaged in securing possession of others with the idea of operating all the state railroads from power generated at these points.

There are a great number of natural power plants of this character in that country, and there is little excuse of making use of any other source of power. The work of electrification has already commenced on the Drammen and Christians road. The output of money for this work is very large, that for the power stations alone amounting to $12,000,000, but it is anticipated that the saving in the operation of the lines will soon justify the expenditure.

ECZEMA OVER HANDS, NECK AND ARMS

Could Not Sleep for Itching and Burning, Pimples Red and Watery, Skin and Scalp Dry and Scaly, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

1321 Douglas St., Omaha, Neb.—"My trouble began from a bad form of eczema all over my hands, neck and arms. I could get no sleep for the itching and burning. The small pimples looked red and watery and my skin and scalp became dry and scaly. The pimples irritated me so that I would scratch until they bled. I could not put my hands in water and if I once tried they burned so that I could not stand it. I had to have my hands tied up and gloves on all the time for nearly two months. Sometimes I would scratch the skin off it irritated so and I could do no work at all. I tried all kinds of remedies but nothing did any good. My trouble had lasted for three years, then I saw in a newspaper about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got some. I washed my hands in warm water and Cuticura Soap, then put the Cuticura Ointment on and I was completely healed in five or six weeks. They have not troubled me since." EVENING SCHOOL HAD LIBERAL PATRONAGE

TOTAL OF 533 ENROLLED IN NIGHT CLASSES DURING THE PAST WINTER.

STATE REPORT ISSUED

Increase in Industrial School Tax Levy, to $7,656 Is Recommended—Few Labor Permits.

Janesville's continuation and industrial school has had a flourishing season during the past winter according to the report of the state department of public instruction which has just been issued. While 88 persons were enrolled in the continuation school 533 were given instruction in the evening classes, a most exceptional showing. The state report endorses the recommendation of the local industrial school board increasing the tax levy from $1,180 to $7,656. A summary of the report is given below.
Janesville has a total assessed valuation of property July 1, 1914, of $15,312,625. The maximum levy of the local industrial board for 1914-15 may be $7,656. The population in 1910 was 13,894. Last year in the state, 1 person in 80 of the population was eligible for the continuation school. 13,894 divided by 80 gives 174 persons, 14 to 16 years of age, estimated number eligible for continuation school. One person in 400 of the population is estimated eligible for industrial school. Dividing 13,894 by 400 gives 35, the estimated number of apprentices or learners between 16 and 21 years of age eligible for day industrial school.

No Day Industrial Schools.
The report shows no industrial school for day apprentices or learners on account of the sentiment of the employers on the written apprenticeship system. In lieu of this day industrial school, evening classes were maintained, serving 95 home-makers, 27 teachers, 15 factory employees, 8 domestic workers, 3 telephone operators, 2 machinists, 2 dentists, 8 laborers, 15 carpenters, 8 sheet metal workers, 15 mechanics, 16 business men and 201 miscellaneous.

The day continuation school served 53 persons. It sessions 4 times a week for 32 weeks. Thirty pupils attended 32 weeks, 3 for 31 weeks, 2 for 30 weeks, 1 for 29 weeks, 1 for 27 weeks, 1 for 26 weeks, 2 for 25 weeks, 4 for 24 weeks, 41 for less than 24 weeks. Of these persons, 32 were classified in about 6th grade, 22 in about 7th grade, 31 in about 8th, and 3 in high school. Six of these were employed in department stores, one in messenger service, two in mills, fifty-three in factories, three in housework, fourteen on delivery wagons, three in telephone office, six at home. They were employed by 31 different employers, 9 by the Hough Shide Corporation, 20 by the Janesville Clothing company.

Many Evening Classes.
No day industrial or day commercial activities were maintained. Many evening classes were organized in various activities. The total expense for the continuation school was $4,026, the per capita cost, $45.75. The total enrollment of evening classes was 533, the expense for evening classes was $2,379, the per capita cost for evening classes, $34.31. The tax levy for the year 1913-14 was $4,180, the total disbursements for the year, $7,405.44, the general per capita cost for all pupils enrolled in the schools, $11.92. The state aid asked for continuation activity is $2,023, the aid asked for evening activity is $1,647.72. The effort on the part of the teachers and officers to extend the service of these schools and improve the quality of instruction has been highly commendable. Janesville has had the responsibility of serving approximately 174 persons in continuation school, 35 persons in industrial school and also providing evening classes for persons over 16. It served instead, 38 in continuation school and 533 in evening classes. The number of labor permits is less in this city than the usual number for two reasons: (a) the regular schools hold the pupils unusually well; (b) the employers are averse to employing children under 16 years of age.

Here a program and two addresses were enjoyed; also a picnic dinner. A little boy from Whitewater succeeded in setting the dollar bill off the top of the greased pole. There is more Calarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has now proven Calarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Calarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It cures directly the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

IT'S a glad day for a tobacco chewer when he finds the Real Tobacco Chew. "Right-Cut" is made of rich, mellow, full-bodied tobacco. Seasoned and sweetened just enough.

Knowing how much it means to his comfort a man takes pleasure in telling his friends about it, too. You don't have to grind it away. The taste lasts.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short-shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

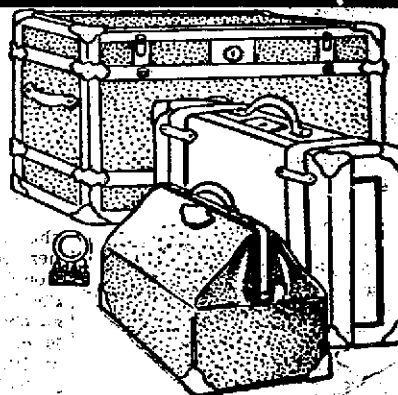

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

If your dealer does not sell it, send us 10c. in stamps for a pouch of "Right-Cut" Chewing Tobacco.

Teach Children Value of Things. If a child is permitted to be wasteful and extravagant in his home, he is sure to show the effects of it in his after life. He is likely never to appreciate the true value of things or be able to accomplish anything of lasting benefit to the world, either in the way of the accumulation of wealth, or knowledge or character.—Exchange.

Here Is Good News for Stomach Victims

Some very remarkable results are being obtained by treating stomach, liver and intestinal troubles with pure vegetable oils, which exert a cleansing, soothing and purifying action upon the lower bowels, removing the obstructions of poisonous fecal matter and gases and preventing their absorption by the blood. This done, the food is allowed free passage from the stomach, fermentation ceases and stomach troubles quickly disappear. George H. Mayr, for twenty years a leading Chicago druggist, cured himself and many of his friends of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles of years' standing by this remedy, and so successful was the remedy he devised that it has since been placed in the hands of druggists all over the country, who have sold thousands of bottles. Though absolutely harmless, the effect of the medicine is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable effectiveness, and within 24 hours the sufferer feels like a new person. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by all druggists.

The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth

The Parting of the Ways. "All I have left to say, Wentworth, is this—we have come to a crossroad and you must choose between two paths: either cut that woman out of your life or don't expect to take your place among decent citizens."

There was a look of discomfort and anxiety in Grant Oswald's pale, high-bred face while he spoke, although his voice was emphatic. Enoch did not answer. He moved restlessly in his chair once or twice, lifted a program that lay on his desk, and ran his eyes through its pages. Oswald paused as if waiting for a reply.

"I can't understand your infatuation, Wentworth," he went on; "the woman degenerates every day of her life. God knows, a bitter tone crept into his voice, "I feel culpable for even bringing her across the ocean. Then I ought to have let her go when I spoke of it a month or two ago. She was bound to do mischief, only I never dreamed that you would fall into her clutches. I warned you."

Enoch sat in sullen stillness, with his eyes fixed on a calendar which hung above the desk. "I wish," Oswald's tone was almost wistful, "that you would at least talk it over. I think I can deal with the woman if anyone can. I have always treated her with a certain stand-offishness that she resents. She has tried, more than once, to cross the line I drew. She didn't succeed, and it galls her. I never put into words what I think of her. She understands, however, that I recognize her value dramatically, while personally to me—she is offensive. If she has you in her power, won't you tell me? It would never go beyond these walls. She knows that I know her story. Low as she has sunk, she realizes that it is not what the world would call a creditable story. I can handle her easily."

A gleam of relief and hope drifted for a moment across Wentworth's face. Then he laughed nervously and the sullen frown returned to his eyes. He rose and began to pace the office floor with nervous footsteps.

"Won't you trust me?" pleaded Oswald. "I have a real regard, Wentworth, for you as well as for your sister. I would do it for your sister, if for no other reason. There is time enough yet to pull away, but," he spoke abruptly, "it won't be long. The woman has dragged more than one man to the gutter or to suicide."

Wentworth laughed disagreeably.

"Well, it won't be suicide," he answered harshly. "Don't be too sure. When a man who has always had a fair amount of self-respect begins to lose it, he usually faces two alternatives; that is, unless he has a solid anchor in his home."

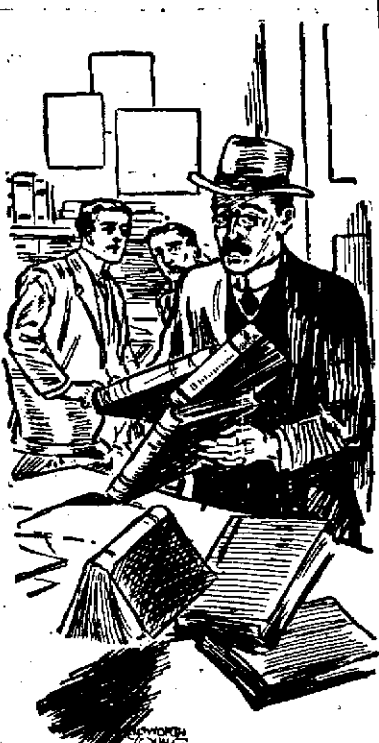

Enoch lit a cigar and began to smoke.

"Evidently it is useless to talk. What passes my understanding is how any man can turn out a woman like your sister to give shelter to Zilla Paget. I hate to say it, Wentworth, you will set me down as a cad, but I prefer to have a separate office. I am willing to take the little back room, or you can. One suits me as well as the other."

"Certainly," Wentworth leaped to his feet alertly. "I'll change at once. I'd hate to thrust my society upon anyone who does not care for it."

"It is not your society I mean wholly. I object to Miss Paget dropping in here as she did today. Don't hurry, I did not mean that."

"I don't care what you mean. I can make the change at once." Enoch's voice was cheerful. He began to drag volumes from the bookcase beside him and desk. "You made yourself tolerably plain, don't you, with politeness." He pulled the papers from pigeon-holes in his desk and tossed them about in loose piles, dropping some in the waste basket and bundling others together with rubber bands.

Dropped an Armful of Books on His Desk.

Oswald's pen was traveling slowly across a sheet of paper when some one tapped softly at the door. Merry entered. Enoch did not turn his head. The actor seated himself beside Oswald's desk.

"I could not show up this morning when you phoned," he explained. "I have been arranging for a funeral. It's one of those funerals which have no great string of carriages."

"Who's dead?"

"George Volk." Oswald laid down his pen and stared at Merry. "George Volk? When did he drift back to America?"

"Nobody seems to know anything about him. It's a mercy though; it sets Alice free."

"How did she take it?" asked the Englishman quickly.

"I haven't told her yet." "Where did he die? The last time you heard of him was in England, wasn't it?"

"Yes. This morning I came to the theater to get a letter I left in my dressing-room and ran into a policeman who was looking for Alice Volk. I asked him what he wanted. They found a letter addressed to her on a man who was killed last night down near the bridge. I've been with the officer since 10 o'clock."

"Is there anything I can do?"

"No. I've looked after everything. But I want your advice on one point. What do you think of not telling her—ill he is buried?"

"It's the best plan. I supposed he had fallen pretty low."

"Low!" Merry shrugged his shoulders. "I did not know such dives existed as the place where I found him. He had been lying there soaked to the point of insensibility for two weeks. He was too horrible a sight for the eyes of any woman."

"What an end!" exclaimed Oswald.

"The man once stood on a pinnacle that many an actor would give half a lifetime to win. He had—"

The Englishman and Merry both looked up quickly. Wentworth had dropped an armful of books noisily on his desk. He opened the door which led to the inner office, passed through, then slammed it sharply behind him.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Yellow Envelope.

More than one "summer show" had begun to blazon an alluring sign over the door of a Broadway theater before "The House of Esterbrook" closed its season. The fame of the play had gone abroad through the country, and night after night, long after the residence part of New York showed a labyrinth of boarded fronts, every seat in the Gotham was sold before the curtain went up.

The house was packed to the roof on the night the play closed. It was the middle of June and the city had grown uncomfortably hot. Wentworth had spent a restless day. It seemed to him as if the air was filled with anticipation. He overheard the Greens discuss their plans for the summer in a Maine camp. Julie Volk had approached him, half shy, half eager, to tell of a shore cottage where they were to stay with Dorcas until the season opened. Telegrams came and went, everyone in the theater had plans except himself. He felt forsaken and isolated amid the excitement of a closing night. He had no ties—not a human being cared whether he came or went. There was a house—he held the title deeds for it, he paid taxes and hired servants to care for it—but it was not a home. Only a year ago the three of them had gone holidaying, as care-free as children. Ages had passed since last summer.

He wandered about the theater in aimless, unseeing fashion. The world seemed to have grown intolerable. He hated the gay laughter in the audience, the rustling of fans, and the buzz of voices between the acts. The orchestra had chosen airs that jarred upon his inmost nerves. He stood watching the throng when suddenly he wondered how he should meet tomorrow and every tomorrow of a long, lonely, inactive summer.

Before the curtain fell on the last act he strolled through the darkened house and opened a narrow door behind the lower boxes. A few shadowed steps led to the stage. A man stood inside with his fingers moving over the buttons, which flooded the stage with light or shadow. Wentworth pushed past him and walked swiftly behind the drops until he reached a corner which was comparatively deserted. He stood inside a wing, watching the company take their curtain calls. Last of all came Merry, alone. The insistent applause importuned a speech. Wentworth smiled grimly. Andrew's one terror was a speech. He saw the actor glance about him appealingly, then his eyes signaled to the man who controlled the curtain. It began to descend with quiet deliberation. Merry paused, for a moment, then he came back.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began, "I had hoped—"

While Wentworth stood listening he wondered why the descent of the curtain did not stop. He turned and whispered a command to the stagehand who stood beside him. The man's face was deathly white, he looked paralyzed with terror. In a second Enoch realized that something in the machinery had lost its grip. The house had grown still, while Merry stood smiling and talking in his nonchalant fashion. A young man with a gleaming expanse of shirt front rose from a lower box and set his foot upon the railing, preparing to climb over to the stage. A woman stood beside him clasping her hands and staring at Merry with horror-stricken eyes. Her face grew as white as the lace robe she wore. Then she shrieked, a long, shivering cry of terror. Enoch sprang toward the footlights with one swift leap, holding his arm over his head as if to ward off the heavy curtain, which was still descending. He seized Merry with a desperate grip and tossed the actor far back on the stage, then he fell with the ponderous curtain across his inert body. His closed eyes were facing the glare of the footlights.

Dorcas and Merry, in a swift motor, reached the Waverly Place home before the ambulance, and a famous surgeon came close at their heels. When the operation was over they laid Wentworth upon his own bed. The surgeon stood looking down on the unconscious face. Blood was welling slowly from the wound on his forehead and made a wide stain upon the snowy bandage. The man turned to look at Dorcas: her make-up lay in smudges upon her face and she wore one wire cotton gown which belonged to "Cordelia" in the last act; her fingers clenched each other, while she turned an imploring gaze to the quiet face of the surgeon.

"I do not know—yet," he whispered, answering the question in her eyes; "it is too soon to tell. He lived through it, and it is one of those operations when the patient does not always live."

Somebody led her away. In a dazed fashion she knew that Alice Volk, bathed her face and braided her hair into two long strands and changed her stage gown for a soft kimono. Then Merry took her hand and she followed him to the library. She lay down upon a couch feeling as if every nerve in her body had an ear and it was listening. The house was perfectly still. Once in her mind she used that phrase, "Still as death." Afterwards she fell into a shivering fit; the tears came, and she sobbed so fiercely that the agony seemed to sear at her throat.

FAREWELL. He—(poetically) Will you be mine and travel with me o'er life's troubled waters? She—No, thanks. I'm not a life preserver.

Dinner Stories

There is nothing like knowing when you have said enough. "You are charged," said the magistrate, "with talking back to an officer. Have you anything to say?"

"Never a word, your honor," replied the culprit. "I've said too much already."

"Mother," said a little boy returning from Sunday school, "I can't understand the text we had to study this morning. It is more blessed to give than to receive. What does it mean?"

"Mother would rather you thought the matter out for yourself, dear. Think about it a while, then, if you can understand, come to me."

Half an hour later mother inquired: "Do you understand what 'It is more blessed to give than to receive' means now, dear?"

"Yes, mother, I think so. The Bible

The Woman Who Takes

the proper help to keep her digestion right and her system free from poisonous accumulations, is not troubled with headaches, backache, languid feelings, unnatural sufferings. All women who have tried

BEECHAM'S PILLS

know this famous remedy to be the proper help for them. A few doses will make immediate difference and occasional use will cause a permanent improvement in health and strength. They cleanse the system and purify the blood and every woman who relies on Beecham's Pills, not only enjoys better physical condition, with quieter nerves and brighter spirits, but she must be speaking of castor oil."

One day out at Delmar two horses were coming down the home stretch, nose and nose, but when they reached the wire one of the horses stuck out his tongue and won the race.

"That, gentlemen," remarked a bystander, "was the closest race I ever saw."

"That's nothing," remarked another man. "I lived in Scotland two years and that's the closest race I ever saw."

Some time ago a United States senator went into a barber shop at the national capital. The barber who shaved him was an elderly man, who said he had shaved Daniel Webster and remarked, "You remind me so much of Mr. Webster."

The senator, flattered, asked if it was his broad forehead that reminded him of the dead statesman.

"No," replied the barber. "It's your breath."

A traveling sales agent visiting a large factory made a bet with the manager that he would pick out all the married men among the employees.

Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they came back from dinner and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married, and in almost every case he was right.

"How do you do it?" asked the manager in amazement.

"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler, "quite simple. The married men all wipe their feet on the mat; the single men don't."

A stout, overdressed woman, talking to a friend, said:

"Yes, since John came into his money we have a nice country house, horses, cows, pigs, hens and—"

"That must be charming," broke in the other. "You can have all the fresh eggs you want, and—"

"Oh, well," hastily interrupted the first speaker, "of course the hens can lay if they like to, but in our position it isn't at all necessary."

The constantly increasing use of POLARINE by thousands of motorists is indisputable evidence of its lubricating efficiency. It affords perfect lubrication to all makes and types of motor cars, motor trucks, motorcycles and motor boats. POLARINE maintains the correct lubricating body at any motor speed or temperature.

Polarine

POLARINE remains liquid at zero. POLARINE differs from all other makes of motor oils, in that it furnishes perfect lubrication to friction surfaces at extremes of temperature. The essential characteristics obviate the necessity of changing oil for summer and winter lubrication—also the necessity of mixing kerosene, graphite and other injurious products with unsuitable and poor cold-start oil for the purpose of making it feed in winter weather.

Make Your Advertising Persistent

Two young men, mechanics, decided to go into the Automobile business. They rented a store, bought all the accessories; ran one really good ad—then waited for things to come their way. As we mentioned at the beginning, these were two young men. Perhaps that was why they waited for things to come their way.

Had they been the right sort of young men, from the business point of view, would they have waited—or would they have got in the ring and solicited business for the new firm? Would they have visited the advertising manager of their home paper; contracted for a space of their own and in that space kept persistently hammering home to the public at large that they were in the Automobile business? That men might come and men might go, that they were there to stay. That they were going to play the game fair and square. That men might come and men might go—they would still be caring for autos at the old stand, in a way that once tried would bring a return visit.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 7, 1874.—Frank C. Bailey, the younger, creamer, recently met with an accident that might have proved harmful. Having surrounded a square meal at Carr's Koskonong hotel, he was in the act of prying out from the interstices and cavities of his teeth the "bonner" when the pin used for the purpose escaped his thumb and finger and lodged in his throat. Every effort to dislodge the troublesome pin proved unavailing, and it was finally dislodged by pushing downward. But one arrest was made in this city on the Fourth and that for drunkenness. Considering the immense concourse of people that thronged the streets from morning till night this fact is a remarkable one. The regular force, together with the specials who were charged with preserving order on that occasion, by the exercise of tact and forbearance were enabled to subdue all undue hilarity. Complaints of drouth are alarming. Chintz bugs are destroying everything. Rain is being most heartily prayed for in all directions. Another attempt to rob John Davies' store on Milwaukee street was made on Friday night, but Mr. Kaufman went for the intruder, who drew back from the window and ran off. We are to have a military company of our own, but we are requested not to mention any names as yet. Three hours rain would delight every heart in Rock county, and the clouds are promising. Wool is coming in slowly and advancing in price. Forty-two cents is the price now being paid for well washed wool. One-third off for unwashed. At half past three this afternoon a few drops of rain fell, but only enough to create a desire for more.
